BAGGAGE

It is recommended that relay participants have suitable clothing with them depending on the weather before and after their run. Participants (especially those running the later legs of the course) will be waiting for a lengthy period of time prior to their run. In addition, participants who have completed their run will have to wait a short time before departing for the finish.

Participants will need to coordinate with their team members to handle their clothing needs on race day. We recommend the following:

- The final runner will need to make arrangements to have dry clothing at the finish.
- Runner A gives their clothing to Runner B so that it is waiting for them at the first exchange point. Runner B can leave their clothing at the exchange point with Runner A and run to the next exchange where Runner C will have their clothing...and so on.
